

Tenth Week

This is the first time for me to have a summer internship. I feel so exciting about everything. From beginning to end, I met a lot challenges. Luckily I solved most of them.

The first week I came to Indianan University. My flight was delayed and I had to take a late flight. Then when I arrived in Bloomington, and my landlord lost my keys for my room. That night without a bed was unforgettable. Before I began work, there was still a lot of stuff to do. Like shopping, cleaning, and finding my office, I did not make the first week journal for some reason. The first week is good and challenge. I can solve all of them by myself. As a researcher, what I want is not only limited to do research but also I can deal with do research in my usual life and help myself solve all the problems I met. After finishing final report, I hang out with my friends in the IU campus. It is such a beautiful place.

If I have to make a solution to this summer, I believe my solution is DMP is awesome program. What I learn is to how to become a good researcher and how to make a living and how to take care everything and how to face challenges and how to solve difficulties.

My summer internship is done but life still goes on. There is never a stop in life. There is never a stop in studying and researching. Everything during this summer will become a memory, but everything also becomes a force to push me go on and go on. Web service and website are both part of the whole project. I know what I did is a little but I also now just a little and a little aggregate and then they change the world.

PS:

This is the supplement for this summer journal.
