I just realize I am really not that familiar with the .net framework classes. So I review all most of important classes to help my work.

I called web service successfully, but every time I call the web method that connected with database, the web form does not work correctly. It seems there are some problems existing in the obdc drive or something.

July 19, 2006

I am a little messed up by calling web service by web page. After Paul setup the web server again, it seemed it was not that bad. But it still does not work. I do not know the reason. But there was still one thing that made me excited. I found the way to make the web service application on a PDA.

July 20, 2006

Today I will leave for a leadership program. So I want to make my application work on the PDA. It has 4 hours left.

My small webpage application works!

UPC

But I still can not format it. Next, I will format the result and make it make sense to my customers.

July 21, 2006

I try to format the results, but it seems difficult. Because I get all the results from mySQL directly, I will make a instruction to explain the result.

I begin the application on PDA. It is similar with application on windows application.
